IMPORTANT FRENCH POSITIONS ON WEST SIDE OF MEUSE FALL BEFORE TEUTONIC ATTACK.

FRESNES NOW OCCUPIED

Last of French Forces Are Driven From Village Says Berlin Statement.—Verdun Situation Unchanged.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, March 8.—The capture of a French position west of the Meuse on both sides of the Aisne Brook, below Béthincourt, six kilometers west, and three kilometers deep, was announced today by German army headquarters. It was also announced that the village of Forges and Regnerville, the heights of Raben and the Châmières woods, were in German possession. The capture of 55 officers, 3,277 men and 1,000 men is included.

In the Woëvre, the French were driven out of the last houses they held in the village of Fresnes. More than 700 prisoners were made.

Verdun Situation Unchanged.

Paris, via London, March 8.—In Champagne the French have recaptured portions of the trenches lost on Monday according to semi-official announcement made here today.

The situation north of Verdun is unchanged. No military attacks were made last night. The announcement says artillery fighting continues.

Relates Battle Incident. "You are not cool enough to fear during a battle," said a captain of light infantry, who in civil life is a professor of philosophy and who fought in the battle of Verdun, "but when the gun crews cease, when the cannon are silent, you have a sensation that something is going to happen, but what you do not know. You expect anything. Those are the horrible moments and the following is an instant of suspense."

"The German attack was beginning in a little wood near Vaux we had made ourselves a hiding place, taking advantage of a hollow in the ground where the searchlights passed over us. And in the evening the German artillery searched out our lines all around our shelter. Great shells tore craters, but our improved fortifications remained untouched. Toward two o'clock in the morning the guns stopped. For nine hours my men had not moved nor spoken for fear of revealing their presence. Their nerves were worn to rags. I could feel their powers of resistance failing, and I was afraid every instant that some one would shout and bring down a shower of heavy shells upon us."

Mystery Tortures Nerves.

"Mysterious life filled here the night, life which none of us understood full of strange lights and sounds. My men began to grit their teeth. This enveloping mystery tortured their nerves. Some closed their eyes, others knew their fists. Before us we saw crawling forms. They were certainly Germans. We waited for them with machine guns loaded and pointed, but our orders were not let the assailants approach and shoot them down from our shelter. But the men could not hold themselves longer. Those groping shadows in the darkness pierced my mysterious flashes, set them mad and they raged at not being able to understand why they were kept tied down in a hole."

Before I could stop them, they leaped from the hole and fell upon the Germans in the dark, yelling like madmen. These hoards have perished to a man under the fire of our machine guns, but luck was on our side and in a minute they were all back in the trench, quite calm. They had at length pierced at the peril of their lives the mystery of the lights, that mystery peopled with phantoms and will-o'-the-wisps which caused the bravest to shudder."

On Australian Front.

Berlin, March 8.—The report on military operations, issued yesterday at Vienna, by Austrian headquarters, and received here today, follows:

"Detachments of the army of Archduke Joseph Ferdinand drove the enemy from an entrenched position near Karpilozka, which they then occupied. North of Tarnopol an Austrian detachment drove the Russians from a trench 1,600 meters in length. At this place and on the Dniester and Besarabian frontier the artillery action on both sides is growing lively."

POLICE MAY CLOSE 'FRISCO CHINATOWN DURING TONG WAR

Police Issue Orders to Stop Feudal Warfare—Chinese Gunmen Post Shooting Orders.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

San Francisco, March 8.—Tong leaders in San Francisco Chinese quarters received a warning today from the chief of police which stated that unless peace was made between the Suey-On and Hopsing-Tongs, he would declare a blockade upon Chinatown, and warn all tourists to stay away from the quarters.

Leaders of the two warring societies were subpoenaed to appear tonight before a grand jury concerning the latest outbreak of Inter Tong warfare.

The walls in Chinatown today are aflame with red posters cautioning Tong gunmen against mistakes in the slaying of their enemies. The poster, translated, read:

"Tongmen, before shooting, will use every precaution to ascertain the Tong connections of men they are about to kill."

"No more mistakes will be tolerated. It will be better to lose a man than to involve a society in difficulty over shooting of a wrong one. On several occasions recently mistakes have been made, and in future the Tong will not be responsible for parties doing the shooting. Use care and keep out of trouble."

Senator Newlands of Nevada Declares Methods Being Employed Are Too Cumbrous.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 8.—Senator Newlands of Nevada, in the Senate today, predicted that the present Congress would fail to evolve a practical system of national defense, and charged both Senate and House with pursuing "most inefficient methods in undertaking the great problem."

Five separate committees, two in the Senate and three in the House, are investigating the subject, he said, "and the Congress is rushing from one to the other, repeating their stories in the greatest confusion."

"Instead of considering the problem as a unit, we will be involved in the utmost confusion on the contentions of the different committees for detached portions of their bills when the subject comes before us."

ENGLAND IS BLAMED FOR SUBSEA WAR

BERNSTOFF SUBMITS MEMORANDUM FURTHER DEFENDING PLAN OF SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

JUSTICE IN REPRISAL

Claim Again Set Forth That Great Britain Has Been Guilty of International Law Violation With Reference to Armed Ships.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 8.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, at the instance of his government, handed to Secretary Lodge a long memorandum explaining in detail the German position in regard to armed merchant ships, and the causes leading up to the decision of the central European powers, to torpedo without warning, all armed merchantmen of their enemies.

Secretary Lansing and Count Von Bernstorff declined divulging contents. It is understood to contain an allegation that Great Britain has taken advantage of the contention of the United States that Americans must be safe on defensively armed merchantmen, to have those ships act offensively toward enemy subservients.

Willing to Abide by Rule.

The German government, it is understood, concedes that as submarines are a new engine of warfare, international law as present constituted, makes no provision for their use.

The German government is understood to express a willingness to operate its submarines in accordance with international law prevailing prior to the war, provided Great Britain does not violate the same laws.

It is also understood that the memorandum contends the evidence appended to the late German announcement that British ships armed ostensibly for defense had been instructed to act and have acted offensively, and that they are not peaceful traders, as the United States was assured, they would be by Sir Cyril Spring-Rice, the British ambassador.

Planned as Retaliation.

The memorandum is also understood to reiterate the previous declaration that submarine warfare was begun by Germany in reprisal for the announced intention of Great Britain to starve the civilian population of the central European countries.

The memorandum also is understood to refer to the standing friendship between the British, U.S. and Germany, and to express the hope that the American people will, in conjunction with the explanations offered, fully appreciate the position in which Germany finds herself as a result of the blockade.

By way of supporting the contention that Germany's reprisals are justified, the memorandum said to enumerate various actions of Great Britain, which have operated against the interests of neutrals and their citizens. These are cited to show that Great Britain has violated international law.

Charge British Violations.

To sustain the German contentions, it is pointed out that Germany agreed to abide by certain terms of the declaration of London, but inasmuch as Great Britain has not restrained her actions to conform with the terms of that declaration, Germany cannot be expected to operate under a code which Great Britain disregards.

It is probable that the complete text of the memorandum will be given out for publication soon. It undoubtedly will be laid before President Wilson sometime today.

Wilson Wants Peace.

Senator Stone of Missouri, chairman of foreign relations committee, declared in the Senate today, after conference with President Wilson, that "it is far from the president's desire to involve this country in this disastrous European war. His supreme wish is to avoid that calamity."

Bryan Influence for Wilson.

Representative Bailey of Pennsylvania, who entertained Wm. J. Bryan luncheon here Monday, at which twenty senators and representatives were present, said today in statement the Bryan influence, as far as it was exerted at all was in favor of the action taken in the house yesterday in tabling the McLemore resolution.

House Upholds Wilson.

Senate on Tuesday the house of representatives sustained President Wilson in his determination to protect American life and American rights upon the high seas.

The first vote gave the president a plurality of 96. The second gave him 135 margin, and the final vote showed him winner by 134.

The German and Austro-Hungarian authorities, who had believed that the McLemore resolution was five to one against the president, in connection with his policy toward submarine warfare, will know tomorrow that the sentiment of the house is practically two to one in his support. Already the senate has gone on record as almost five to one in his favor.

BABY SAVES FATHER FROM PRISON TERM

Cries of Child in Court When Father
Is Arraigned for Burglary, Soften
Heart of Magistrate.

In the municipal court this morning, a young man, Roy Simmons of Edgerton, was before the justice bench to receive a sentence to day labor, having been committed at Indian Ford yesterday morning. He had waived his right for a preliminary hearing and entered a plea of guilty. A sentence of state's prison stared him in the face for the penalty allows for a three years' term behind the walls of Waupun.

Seated on one side, was a young woman holding a husky infant that was no more than as large as the mother herself. The mother was on the verge of tears but the youngster, innocent of the plight of his father and mother, was bubbling and struggling to be released from mother's lap.

"Papa, Papa, Dadda," gurgled out the infant.

The stern judge looked at the child and then at the defendant, and repeated the gazing. The babies cries was the climax, for there was little chance then that the defendant Roy Simmons would go to the state's prison.

"If it were not for the fact that your disgrace and your punishment would fall largely upon that baby and your wife, I might possibly send you to state's prison. But under the conditions will defer your sentence for three years' time and place you under the state board of control for that period to be paroled out," stated the magistrate.

Simmons was brought to Janesville by Ben Springer, chef at Edgerton. On Tuesday when the young man was "running" his line of traps he changed upon the William Cox store at Indian Ford. He went into the store by forcing a tiny door and proceeded to help himself to the merchandise. In a gunny sack he loaded clothing, soap, matches, tobacco, cough medicine and everything he could find down to needles. Fritz Anderson, a resident at the Ford, happened to see him moving about the store and, knowing that it should be closed, gave the alarm. Simmons was caught in the building and placed under arrest later by Springer. Simmons resides in Edgerton. He was committed to the county jail to await the state board agents.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 26.

It is the "ash" of food that contains the mineral salts of that food. Without a proper consideration of the meaning of this term or of the "ash content" of any food that food should be considered worthless.

We know that human gastric juice is acid in action and that it contains sodium, calcium, potassium, magnesium, phosphorus, iron and chlorine, and that it depends upon these elements for its physiological activities.

We know that if we remove any of these elements or change any of them or prevent the body from finding any of them, by removing them from our food, we thereby establish unnatural conditions in the gastric juice and inevitably bring about disorder.

We know that the pancreatic juice under the gastric juice, is alkaline in action and contains sodium, potassium, phosphorus, magnesium and chlorine.

From this fact, we learn that one part of the digestion is carried on in an acid medium while another part is carried on in an alkaline medium, and our conception of the intricacies of the human laboratory increases in admiration and amazement.

In our continued contemplation of these mysteries it becomes more and more evident that man has no right to ignore the wonderfully complicated structure of the human body when he decides to go into the food business and manufacture for profit the hundred foodless foods which have become so popular on the breakfast, dinner and supper tables of unsuspecting Americans.

The enzymes, fermentations, and vitamins exert such a profound influence upon digestion and assimilation that we receive a shock when we learn that in the preparation of many of our most commonplace foods we destroy their natural functions which are so modified as to make them useless.

The mineral salts that we have described—the fermentations, enzymes, and vitamins—let us put it bluntly and nakedly—are removed from our daily food by commercial practices that pander to false taste standards. The industries that remove them have succeeded to some extent at least in establishing high-sounding justification for their world-wide up to this stage of the world's enlightenment. They have been equal to the task of fogging the atmosphere sufficiently to cloud any attempt of work of reform under the darkness of controversy.

Cheats and pathologists are to be found who are willing to go on record with some such statements as these: "Of the metabolism of foods, of chemical changes, the exact action of enzymes and bacteria, we are profoundly ignorant; therefore we should not give much consideration to the mineral contents of our diet."

A Medical Book Free

By Dr. H. A. Goddard

Modern Methods of treating Chronic Diseases without Operation, has just come from the pen of Dr. Goddard the Milwaukee Specialist and is one of the most interesting as well as instructive little books the doctor has ever written.

If you are a sufferer from Appendicitis, Rupture Gall Stone, Colic, Goitre or Chronic diseases of a private nature, you should avail yourself of his offer to send you this valuable little book free simply for the asking. A postal will bring it to you, in a plain envelope. Many so-called surgical diseases have been proven to be curable by medical treatment, more safely, more easily and cheaply by modern medical methods than was believed possible a few years ago.

After you have read this little book, you can consult Dr. Goddard on his monthly visits to Janesville, free of charge and have the satisfaction of knowing that you have secured the expert opinion of a reputable specialist in these matters. If you have been advised to submit to an operation, surely do not fail to consult him before undergoing such an operation. His advice may save you many weeks of suffering, loss of time and expense, possibly your life. Dr. Goddard will be at the Grand Hotel, Janesville, Wednesday, March 22, and he makes no charges for a friendly visit. Hours 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Question.
Which plant, alfalfa or sweet clover, has the greater value as a soil builder?

I answer.
I have no data from which I can make a direct comparison between alfalfa and sweet clover, but my judgment would be that alfalfa would be better on account of its larger root system.

Both these plants are to a certain extent soil builders, or renovating plants which add fertility to the soil by means of the free nitrogen they take from the air. On the roots of both these plants as well as on other beans, peas, vetches or other legumes are small nodules which are the homes of millions of minute bacteria which absorb the nitrogen from the air and convert it into a fertilizer which is directly available for plant food. This fertilizer is the same as is found in gen fertilizers.

Do not put alfalfa on sod ground. It should be applied on grassy land, or grassed land, clean culture such as potatoes, turnips, etc. Blue grass is the worst enemy of alfalfa and if sown on blue grass sod the grass is likely to crowd out the alfalfa. It is better to have two cultural crops after blue grass before trying alfalfa.

It pays to go slow in starting with this crop and start right, for it will thrive and give good crops three or more years in succession if handled properly.

The best rate of seeding is between 15 and 20 pounds of seed to the acre. On soils that are weed free, well prepared, and thoroughly indicated, 15 pounds to the acre are sufficient. An average soil with average preparation the 20 pound rate is best. In the west where the alfalfa plant is more at home than it is in Wisconsin, good results are obtained from 5 pounds to the acre, but in Wisconsin numerous you will have opportunity to procure other corn.

Be sure not to buy any corn that has not been tested and don't buy seed corn that has been shelled if it is possible to get it on the ear. If you want to test it, which will be as early as you can reasonably hope to see the results of a test made after sowing, you may have to take anything you can get.

WEATHER FORCAST.

Fair and not so cold tonight; Thursdayunsetted and warmer; probably snow or rain north portion.

SIGNIFICANT VOTE.

The action of the House of Representatives at Washington voting to support the president in his wish to have tabled the McLemore resolution relative to warning Americans to keep off armed merchant ships, is most significant. Particularly so in view of the reports that have emanated from German sources that two-thirds of the American congress were at variance with the president in this crisis. Perhaps this had more to do with the decisive vote than anything else as there is no question but the vacillating policy of the president has disgusted even some of his closest and warmest supporters in the past.

However to the world at large the vote is significant. To the politician who reads between the lines it means another empty victory for the administration under gag rule law. That such gag rule can not long continue is most certain. The Chicago Herald in making comment upon the vote in the senate recently on this same question, points out the following facts in a manner that cannot fail to be appreciated.

"Four republican candidates for the presidential nomination, Senators Sherman (of Illinois), Cummings, La Follette and Borah, voted against tabling not only the tricky 'face-saving' Gore resolution, but also against sending to the dump the McCumber resolution, which squarely presented the real issue. That is, these four aspirants for Mr. Wilson's job voted against upholding the president of the United States on a question of national rights and national honor demonstrating thereby their total fitness to be the guardians thereof."

CENSORING PICTURES.

A bill is before congress providing for a national board for control of moving pictures. Many state legislatures are being asked for closer state control. Much opposition to the proposal for government regulation is manifested. It is argued that the voluntary censorship now submitted to by the film makers is more effective than a politically appointed board could be.

Many films are shown that should be "canned," to speak slangily. Some managers think the public is chiefly interested in the morbid lives of fallen women. Others believe nothing goes like impossible heroes plugging cold lead into impossible villains. These delectable scenes are supposed to take place in the so-called Wild West, though they would be much more native at present to the east side of New York city.

Yet attacking a play often only advertises it. The fierce protest by negroes and others against "The Birth of a Nation" has no doubt been worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the owners thereof. It has made everyone want to see it and judge for himself.

Many theatre managers will tell how lovely travel pictures from the national parks are hissed by audiences in some places, who want more "pep," as they would call it. Others say it takes salacious plays to draw women as well as men. The personal tastes of managers sometimes color their views on such points.

The majority of people are clean and healthy minded. Let them realize that the theaters are a reflection of the heart of the community. They have the control of the thing in their own hands.

If they see a wholesome film, let them tell their friends about it. Plenty of others want just that kind of thing. In that way the best pictures can be given backing that they do not always receive.

PREPAREDNESS.

The preparedness situation in congress was ably described in debate last week by Senator Newlands, democrat, of Nevada. Said Mr. Newlands, "in connection with this question of military preparedness I think, of course, that so far as congress is concerned, we are in great confusion of ideas as to what should be done. As it is today we have a plan presented by the late secretary of war, we have another presented by the war college, another presented by the chief of staff, another presented by the chairman of the committee on military affairs of the senate, another by the chairman of military affairs of the house, and numerous others presented by distinguished authorities. The American people are intent upon the single question of national defense, as a unit of which the army and navy are simply branches. And yet we have committees sitting on the branches, but never considering the unit or presenting to the American people any complete scheme of national defense."

The people who had the grippe this winter found that after they recovered it took them six weeks to get well.

Evidences of the long expected great Spring drive will soon be found in the taking up of carpets, the beating of rugs, and general inability of the man of the house to find any of his possessions.

After voting for increased appropriations, the congressmen will go on to their respective national conventions to insert planks promising a reduction in cost of living.

It is hoped to have the Panama canal dug out in two months all ready to receive the next slide of mud from the hills.

It is stated that President Wilson is not a good mixer in spite of the fact of that famous White house mix bed.

It is claimed that sufficient intelligence is not used in buying automobiles. This quality, however, is often shown in borrowing the money to pay for them.

The space the newspapers used to give to what congress is going to do, now seems to be devoted to predictions about the coming baseball season.

Some defects in the country hotel dinner are excused if they can serve it in twenty-five minutes, so that the automobile party can get out and make another record run.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, March 8.—The parent-teachers' meeting at the Morris Pratt Institute Monday evening was well attended. Miss Webber, policewoman from Racine, was one of the speakers and was a pleasant surprise. She was not to antagonize the place of a policeman, but to aid in the prevention of crime. HIGH SCHOOL WILL CLASH WITH BELOIT IN FIRST STRUGGLE

J. H. S. Will Clash With Beloit High School In Their First Game at Whitewater Tournament.

Janesville high school will have another chance at their old time rivals, Beloit, tomorrow night in their first game at the Whitewater tournament. The drawing of places took place last Monday by the tournament officials and as luck would have it Janesville will clash with the Line City tossers. This was the hope of the Blue and White players, as they will be in the best condition possible by tomorrow evening.

Coach Keck has been sending his men through the stiffest kind of scrimmages at the rink building to become familiar with a large floor. As all the games at the tournament will be played in the big new gymnasium at the normal, the locals will not be handicapped by the big floor problem.

Two defeats will eliminate a team from the tournament. The contests scheduled for tomorrow are as follows: At four-thirty o'clock in the afternoon Fort Dodge will clash against Whitewater; at 6:00 p.m., Edgerton vs. Oregon; eight o'clock, Janesville vs. Beloit; nine o'clock, Evansville vs. Brodhead.

The losers of tomorrow's games will play again on Friday, and the winners of the final games Saturday night. Final indications at present the tournament will be great success. Many Janesville followers will probably accompany the team to the game tomorrow night, as the contest will be between the two strongest teams entered in the tournament.

Besides the five regulars, Lee, Crozin, Cushing, Richards and Kober, Morse and Kakuske will go as subs.

This will make the same line-up as was used in the second game with Beloit, when they were defeated by only one point. Since then it has been taken a slump for they were beaten at the Beloit college tournament.

Seconds Play Albany.

The second team will play a game with Albany high school on Friday night in that city. Manager of Athletes Stanley Ryan will accompany five. Those who will go are as follows: Dick Cushing, Krontz, Kenning, Viney, Davy and Denning.

Mr. Masurvey and her son Thomas of Colorado Springs, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Atwood in the Culkin flats on Milwaukee avenue returned home today.

The Ladies' Aid of the Baptist church held an all day meeting in the church parlor today. A picnic luncheon was held at noon.

her. When the thing blows over we'll let her go."

"Leave me out of the job," growled Spike bluntly.

Seagru sprang to his feet—he was a powerful man—and grappled with the convict. The two struggled. Not a word was spoken. Only the grunting and gasping of a life-and-death grapple, the slipping, gripping and scuffling of two enraged men, with Lug and Bill looking on, broke the silence of the room. Spike gradually bore his enemy backward and downward. Lug and Bill jumped in to help Seagru. Spike, shaking himself free from the three, whirled into a corner and caught up a chair. Lug jumped for a gun. Spike, with the strength of a giant, smashed the heavy chair across the table, shattering it to splinters and, raising a piece of it as a club, sprang for the door. "I'll brain the one that lays a hand on me," he cried. "Stand back!"

"What of it?" demanded Spike.

"We must get them," announced Seagru.

"Who's we?" inquired Spike, impudently.

"You!" returned Seagru with as much insolence as he could throw into one word. Spike's sullenness angered him and he continued to explain, but in very amiable tones: "It means the big end of the job for Rhinelander; those contracts reach him; whereas, if I get hold of them, we can tangle him up worse than ever."

Spike spoke up with a new and sudden energy: "You can't get those contracts. The girl is taking them to Rhinelander tomorrow."

"How do you know that?"

"I saw the package in her hands, not ten minutes ago."

Seagru knit his brows for a moment. "I guess there's one way to get them," he said, looking hard at Spike and from him to the two lesser lights. "We'll have to get Helen."

"Then I can tell you," blazed Spike, "you don't get them." Seagru looked at his tool in amazement. The convict's face darkened. "The man that harms that girl!"—he raised his voice ominously—"reckons with me." He registered an oath with his threat. "I'll tear his head from his shoulders!"

"You fool," stammered Seagru. "No body means to hurt her. We'll carry her off and take the contracts from real graces and charm of personality. Wilfred Lucas plays the husband of Miss Gish. He is the type of ex-fightero, hard, sensation seeking, dangerous man of the world. He is almost appealing in his realism, as when he caresses his wife in his tender, clinging wife when she has stayed up all night, thinking he had been beaten up perhaps by thugs. Lucas also thrills by his brute force of will displayed when he finds the dancer, who has got him in her tolls, is not worth his second thought.

AT MYER'S THEATRE. Local theatre goers can prepare themselves for a number of hearty laughs and several hours of keen enjoyment at the Myers Theatre Tuesday, March 14 when Al. H. Wilson the celebrated singer and comedian and his company will present a new variety program, "As Years Roll On" which includes in succession a touch of Holland life and several scenes in New York. There is a heart story revealed in a novel manner, while comedy abounds plentifully to lend additional interest to the performance. Mr. Wilson's new song numbers this season include "Yesterday," "As Years Roll On," "Mother Mine," "He Left Me for a Teddy Bear" and a number of others.

LACK OF ANILINE DYES
MAY CAUSE MEN TO WEAR
MOST GAUDY HEADGEAR

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Chicago, March 8—Shortage of aniline dyes here today threatened to cause mere man to rival the opposite sex in display of gaudy headgear. Hats, depicting all colors of the rainbow, were on sale while the old stiff black chapeau, while being worn as sort of uniform. "The tendency of conservatively men to 'hat' critics of their brains" is being curbed because of the failure of American dyers to meet the demands for dyes from all branches of the apparel industry. "Hatters are among those most seriously affected by the dye shortage," said J. W. Harris of St. Louis, hat manufacturer. "The darker the hat, the more dye demanded."

INTERESTING FARCE FOR SECOND NIGHT

Guy Hickman and Company Put on "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" at Myers Theatre.

Hickman greeted for the second time last night a Janesville audience at the Myers Theatre, who felt it well worth their time to brave the disagreeable young blizzard and enjoy a good evening's performance. Hickman ought to be remembered by the theatre-goers of this city as playing the comedian role in the Hickman-Bessey company here about five years ago, when the company at that time pulled down record breaking crowds at each performance. He is still at his best, as in his appearance in the clever little comedy-drama last night clearly showed, and the comedy surrounding himself all seemed to put his direction to good use. "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" proved to be a convenient background for Hickman to display his amusing talents, for he took the part of an aggressive and straightforward American in a snappy fashion. The play itself is seen in England and has much to do with the complications that usually result in the different phases of matrimony.

"Never Touch Me," a sparkling comedy, will be the Hickman-Bessey attraction for tonight at the Myers.

"HONEYMOON" EXPRESS
NOW ONLY FOR TOURISTS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Philadelphia, March 8.—The "Honeymoon Express," the big mahogany-lined elevator in City hall no longer attracts brides and bridegrooms to the marriage license bureau. The machine first stop now is the sixth floor and these functions centralized by Dan Cupid, searching for the licensee clerk on the fourth floor, no longer patronize the old car. It is being used mostly by visitors who like to look up at Father Penn's iron legs on the tower.

NEWS NOTES from MOVELAND by DAISY DEAN

No greater or more attractive program arrangement can be imagined than Clara Kimball Young in "The Feast of Love," Holbrook Blinn in "The Unardonable Sin," Gall-Kane in "Her God," Robert Warwick and Francis Nelson in "Velma," Carlyle Blackwell in "The Shadow of Doubt," Kitty Gordon in "As in a Looking Glass," George Beban in "The Dawn of Fate," Marguerite Leisle in "The Question," Frank Sheridan in "The Struggle," Bruce McRae and Gerda Holmes in "The Chain Invisible," Mary Boland in "The Price of Happiness," Edwin August in "The Social Highwayman," Eddie Crotche in "Molly o' Pigtail Alley," and John Mason in "The Repressor." While this is not the actual order, no definite statement having been given of rearranged program dates, the above list represents stars and plays actually at work and the forthcoming program will contain a great majority of the above named.

In addition to the seven-reel "spectacle" in which Mary Pickford is starred there is also promised for March three other features of special interest:

Jack Barrymore will be seen in "The Man Who Found Himself"; Hazel Dawn is said to have made the most of an excellent opportunity in "The Longest Way Round" and Pauline Frederick is starred again, the story being "Audrey."

CHILD ACTRESS *

Kittens Beschenek, celebrated child actress, who is seen as "Anson's young daughter" in the production "The Fool's Revenge," recently received a written proposal of marriage from a nine-year-old boy. Kittens took the letter to her mother and asked her to keep it for her until she could decide whether or not to accept the offer of her young admirer.

Priscilla Dean is a most cultured and talented young girl who plays in comedy because she thinks it interesting and who reads books on psychology and philosophy by way of diversion.

Miss Dean, a charming ingenue, appears in "Vogue" comedies along with Russ Powell, Lillian Brown, Tighten Up and other members of the splendid comedy company.

George Beban.

He will appear shortly in a five-reel feature, "The Dawn of Fate." He began his stage career at the age of eight and has become one of the favorite blackface comedians of mid-street. Later still he went into serious drama, and gained a reputation as one of the greatest impersonators of Italian and French character parts in America.

Plenty More Like This in Janesville. Scores of Janesville people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such an endorsement?

Lewis Gower, druggist, 1214 Mineral Point Ave., Janesville, says: "Handling pains and hurtin' probably started my kidney trouble. I had severe attacks of pain through my loins. When I bent over, I had trouble in straightening again. My kidneys acted irregularly. It is also possible that riding a bicycle had something to do with bringing on the backache. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. Since then my kidneys have been strong and I haven't had any more pains or aches."

CHAPTER XXV

Gerry had never ridden a horse so death before. When True Blue first staggered he put spurs to him and laid on his quiet right and left.

The roar of the river was so loud that he could not tell if he had really beaten the flood or not, though he could see just before him the long, snaky ridge of the main ditch banks. He must get on.

But True Blue only came to a staggering stop under the quiet. With his forefeet he still marked time as though with them he would drag his heavy body and master one step nearer home. From his loins back he was paralyzed.

With a last desperate effort he straddled his forelegs, but he could not brace himself against the backward sag of dead-weight. Gerry felt him sinking beneath him and suddenly found himself standing over his prostrate horse. Of True Blue, his forefeet outstretched, his head and breast still held high, there was left only a great spirit chained to a fallen and dying body.

A cry escaped Gerry's lips—a cry of horror at what he had done. Then he remembered why he had done it and ran not for the sluice-gate but for the bridge. As he reached it the roar became deafening. There was a splintering, crackling sound that measured by the great commotion, seemed like the tinkle of a tiny bell. But there was something in the sound that called to his brain. He cast a glance over his shoulder. The monster beams of his sluice-gate, buried, splintered, into the air, were still hanging against the blue sky. Under them surged an angry white wall of racing water. Even as he started to run down the long slope to the house Gerry thought with a great relief that if the gate had been closed it would have gone even so, like matchwood.

Below him Fazenda Flores lay peaceful, still, under the blazing sun. The cotton was a little withered but high and strong, the cane stunted but alive. Only in the pasture bottoms the stock had gathered in frightened clumps. Their instinct had told them that danger hovered near. Suddenly from the quiet house burst Margarita, carrying her son on one arm. She had seen Gerry from a window. While the others watched the rising river, and now this terrifying torrent bursting down upon them from above, she had slipped out to run to him.

The house at Fazenda Flores stood on a domed mound. Behind the mound was a slight hollow before the steady rise to the bridge began. Gerry caught sight of Margarita as she ran down towards this hollow. Terrified, he cast a glance at the descending flood and his eye measured its pace against hers. "Go back!" he shouted with all the strength of his lungs, and waved his arms. It was as though he had not spoken. Through the din and roar of the flood the sound of the words scarcely reached his own ears.

At the very bottom of the hollow Margarita felt that she was stepping in water. She took her eyes from Gerry, who she thought was beckoning to her, and looked down. A hurrying rivulet whose swift flow carried it before the churning crest of the flood, tugged at her ankles. She looked up toward the thundering wall of oncoming water and knew that she was lost.

She stopped and fixed her eyes on Gerry, who was plunging down the slope in a mad effort to reach her. She called to him, but she knew he could not hear her. With arms stretched to their highest, she held up the Man. The Man was not frightened. His black eyes were fixed on his running father. Margarita could feel him gurgling with joy in the new game. Then suddenly he cried out. It was a wail of fright. The wall was cut short. Broken in two, it rang terribly in her ears as she went down.

The water had felled Margarita and the Man. Gerry saw them flung down the crest of the wave. They became suddenly a twirling, sodden mass, intimate save for the sling of a loose limb into clearer view against the blue sky or the uncoiling of long black hair on the seething water.

Gerry reached the torrent. Margarita and the Man had already been whirled far towards the great river. He plunged into the flood. The water was thick with earth, sticks, uprooted plants and debris of every sort. Conflicting, swirling currents tugged at heavy stones, rolled them along and sometimes even tossed one to the surface.

Gerry's struggling body was hurled hither and thither. A stray current shot him to the surface, but before he could take breath other currents sucked him down and dragged him along the rough surface of the crumbling soil. He felt as though he were being torn limb from limb.

Then suddenly he was cast into an eddy in comparison with the maelstrom was almost peaceful. For an instant he felt like one who awakes from a terrible dream, but with the sigh that trembled to his lips came realization.

From head to toe he was battered and bruised. His cotton clothes were in tatters. His chest heaved in great spasmodic gasps. Breath whistled through his wracked lungs. His eyes protruded. His head ached till it seemed on the verge of bursting. But to his mind pierced a thought sharper than pain—the thought of Margarita and the Man. With clenched teeth he struck out for the current.

Far, far away rose a dusty line of mist. It marked the head of the flood—the meeting of water with the accumulated dust of rainless months. Gerry recognized the meaning of that line: Somewhere there in the turmoil of the first rush of the mud flood were Margarita and the Man—what was left of them. The distance dismayed him, but he swam on. Then he felt the fast approaching end of endurance. A sob choked him.

It was only minutes till his arms refused to answer to his will. They moved so weakly that more than once his gasping mouth sank below the water. He swallowed great gulps of the turbid flood. Then an uprooted tree brushed by him. He clutched its roots. The distance dismayed him, but he swam on. Then he felt the fast approaching end of endurance. A sob choked him.

A cry escaped Gerry's lips—a cry of horror at what he had done. Then he remembered why he had done it and ran not for the sluice-gate but for the bridge. As he reached it the roar became deafening. There was a splintering, crackling sound that measured by the great commotion, seemed like the tinkle of a tiny bell. But there was something in the sound that called to his brain. Then suddenly he cried out. It was a wail of fright. The wall was cut short. Broken in two, it rang terribly in her ears as she went down.

The water had felled Margarita and the old woman. She stood alone; about her the silent waters, above her the blazing blue sky.

The tree shot out of the eddy. The current, the main current from the cleft, caught it squarely and swept it away. It suddenly shook its long trail of ripples, and turning and turning, more and more swiftly, swam out on to the churning bosom of the great river.

The valley had disappeared. Squatting on the very level of the far-flung waters, the old house still stood. The bright sun struck a glint of light from its white walls and gave rich colors to the moss-grown tiles. The roof was crowded with fowl and a strange medley of heavy flying birds, glad of a perch on which to rest. Dona Maria went into the house. She closed the great board shutters. The house looked as if it had closed its eyes in a last renunciation.

Gerry's tree floated down the river. It swung slowly along near the north shore. Just below it were houses. They were perched on the cliff. Below them were more houses and under these the tiled roofs of still other houses just topped the flood. The houses were what was left of Piranhas.

From the shore canoes in search of food began to shoot out on the quietening waters. One of them happened upon Gerry's tree and then upon Gerry. Gerry's eyes opened and then closed again. He scarcely felt the arms that lifted him. They carried him to the old inn, the miserable little inn he had left behind on that glorious morning of so long ago.

"Fare nothing," said Gerry kindly. "You have been faithful. You may consider the room engaged by me for the next ten years."

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substance for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pinprick, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—but have no dangerous side effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 100 and 250 per box.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

Shortly after the death of one of England's great poets, one of his devoted admirers visited the little village where the poet had lived and died. The stranger entered into conversation with an old man, a native of the village, remarking sadly on the death of the poet.

"Aye, ay," answered the man, consoling the visitor. "Still, I make no doubt but the wife'll carry on the beesness."

"Some un sick at yo' house, Mis' Carter?" inquired Lila. "Ab seed doctah's kyur erroum' car yesterday."

"He can't 'yo' says he can't work."

"Not a stroke."

the blow.

He called the old woman. He asked her if she remembered him. She peered at him. "No, master," she said. "I do not remember you. You are like the foreigner who was drowned, but he is dead."

Gerry shook his head. "Not dead," he said, "only disappeared."

"You are not he," said the old woman. "He could not talk words that one could understand."

Gerry nodded gravely. He felt as though words could never make him smile again. "I have learned," he said. "Now tell me what became of the things I left here?" He went through the list.

The old woman checked off each item and then shrugged her shoulders. She led him to a little dark room whose only light came from the interstices of the tiled roof. As his pupils expanded he began to make out one after another of the bags that had made up his traveling kit.

"There is a letter," she said, and went off to fetch it. Gerry dragged the bags out into the light. Their locks were all sealed with the seal of the American consulate at Pernambuco. He started knocking at the brittle wax. The old woman came back with

THE MODERN CLUB WOMAN.

BABY WEEK.

That everyone loves the babies is shown by the readiness with which all have taken hold of the idea of Baby Week. The ministers have incorporated the idea in their sermons, the merchants have been very quick in their response to special window decorations. The Gazette has tried to show in their Sunday edition that there are some Janeville babies to be proud of and merchants who appreciate the needs of the little folks.

As giving special inducements to the stork to visit Janeville parents our public spirited merchants have offered prizes to babies born this week; McCue & Buss, a baby-size hot water bottle that baby's feet may be warm and warm; and a package of Red Cross Castile soap from the Red Cross Drug store to assist in the comfort of the baby's toilet.

Program of Baby Day
At City Hall Friday, March 10th

The Civic League have planned the following programs. At 3 p. m. an address by Mrs. Dora Mendenhal of Madison on "How to Save the Babies." It will be an intimate confidential talk from a trained expert and one who knows the trials and pleasures of mothercraft from personal experience. Young mothers are especially urged to be present to benefit by this opportunity, as questions will be answered, and advice given by the speaker. At 8 P. M. an address will be given by Mrs. Mendenhal of a general civic nature on the topic "Health of a Community." To this lecture the general public, men and women, both young and cordially invited. There will also be some exhibits on display in connection with the Friday meetings.

One of the baby "dressmakers," Miss Ludlow, has enthusiastically volunteered to come over to the City Hall on Friday afternoon with a complete layette, and to personally show things, answer questions and give any information in her power to those who are interested. She declined to put her things in a case, but said she would prefer to have them so they could be examined by the ladies who wish to see them.

The Gas company are offering as a special inducement to visits of the stork, a present of one of their nursery wall cabinet heaters to the babies born in Janeville during Baby Week. And to mothers see how easily the babies' bottles can be heated by this contrivance they are sending over a sample to be shown on Baby Day at the City Hall.

The simple layette prepared by the society of the D. A. R. for the emergency use of the visiting nurse will also be shown by its proud sponsor, Mrs. T. S. Nolan. Mrs. Nolan will also be on hand to tell about the little foreign babies she has mothered in her official capacity. There may be other interesting things happen, better come and see.

PRESIDENTS OF WOMEN'S CLUBS HAVE A MEETING.

A meeting of members from the different clubs of the city was held in Library hall, Tuesday a. m., Feb. 29th, at 10 o'clock. The clubs were represented by the following ladies:

The Woman's History, Mrs. David Holmes Art League, Mrs. E. F. Woods.

The D. A. R., Mrs. G. G. Sutherland. The Athenaeum Club, Mrs. L. G. Catchpole.

The Philomathian Club, Mrs. J. R. Whiffen.

The O. E. S. Study Class, Mrs. C. H. Veirick.

The Congenial Twenty Club, Mrs. T. S. Nolan.

The Janeville Civic League, Mrs. J. R. Nichols.

The Dramatic League, Miss Greenman.

The McDowell Club, Mrs. S. W. Hoon.

The meeting was called by Mrs. Helms the interest of the rest room. Club room movement on the part of the present time. Mrs. David Holmes was made chairman and Miss Matilda Bailey, secretary. Mrs. Helms explained that the time had now come for the clubs of the city to secure a club room. She said that by the generous donation of $1000 given by the All Souls society the middle room on the second floor of the Library was to be made into a rest room. If the clubs of the city would unite and defray the expense of fitting off the room on the south side for a club room that the expense would be much less than if done separately and that one kitchenette and toilet would answer for the use of both.

Mrs. Woods discussed at some length the necessity of a club room and said that when the question was agitated some years ago she had universal favor among the members of the several clubs. The ladies freely discussed the immediate expenditure and future expenses incurred by endorsing such a plan. Mrs. Sutherland moved that a committee composed of Mrs. Helms, Mrs. Nolan and Miss Bailey be appointed to make a report of the actual number of club members in the city, the plans and specifications for the club room and the approximate cost of financing and maintaining the same, with all possible restrictions as to use which would be contingent on its being in a city building. Such a report to be sent to each person present and to be presented by them to their respective clubs. The motion was carried and the meeting was adjourned.

WORKING PLAN FOR A CLUBROOM

At a meeting held on Tuesday, Feb. 29th at the Library building representatives from the various women's clubs of the city appointed a committee to prepare a statement of facts and to outline a working plan looking toward the establishment of a union club room for all the women's clubs of the city. The president of the organization submitted the tender of a gift of $1000 from All Souls society to furnish off a memorial rest room in the Library building was made at a meeting of the Library board on Feb. 25th. This donation was accepted by the board subject to the few regulations necessary to the welfare of the building. A motion was also passed by the board that if the club women of the city wished to take over the other unfinishes room (the south room) to furnish it for club rooms, the plan would have the consent and approval of the Library board. The mayor was present at the meeting and in behalf of the city council agreed to furnish the funds needed to install adequate toilet rooms and kitchenette in connection with the rest room. He also promised to enlarge the appropriation for the Library building so as to include the extra janitor service and the light and heat necessary for the plan. In an interview given by the mayor to the committee on March 3rd he stated that reservation in Door county have been set aside for this purpose by this state. There are also 6 state parks that are designated as state refuge places for birds and 100 acres on the lake shore of Madison as a protected area for waterfowl. Six spots of the hawks as being the greatest foe to the birds and some means of limiting their ravages was suggested. Also food for birds and water fowls was spoken of as being necessary to their preservation. The words of Carnegie were quoted, "I would as lieve shoot an angel as a bird, they both sing and fly." Also the remark made by a noted authority, "A dead bird on a hat does not help the appearance of an ugly woman, and a pretty woman does not need it." The immense number of English sparrows in this country, however, all come from 8 pair who were brought over and established in Greenwood cemetery near New York City in 1850. The last paper on the program was a trivologue given by Mrs. Karch and quoted elsewhere. Delicate refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the afternoon.

O. E. S. STUDY CLASS.

This committee would approve of a suggestion made by the library board that the space for a club room be finished off as two rooms both as a matter of convenience and for the comfort of the smaller clubs. It would also suggest that the possible kitchenette be placed between the entrance and the club room with a door opening into each, that both might use it to advantage. This committee deemed it unwise, at the present time to delay matters until plans could be drawn. As it would be necessary to consult the All Souls committee, the club room committee and the Library board that to do so was desired by them and when these plans drawn and estimates submitted by contractors. This process is necessarily a slow one. However the committee would recommend that the sum of $1500 be raised if possible, as that sum would provide an ample fund for building purposes and something for suitable furnishings. This committee wishes to state, that the board in passing this motion allowing the club women to take over the room did so with the understanding that they would be for the use of all women clubs of an educational nature and civic clubs where men and women both were members. The dates for these meetings to be arranged by a club room committee as so not to conflict with regular club work.

The State law prevents the use of Library buildings for card playing and dancing so these forms of amusement will have to be barred from the rooms. But some of the clubs, especially the Civic League hope to do something in welfare work for girls connection with this plan. And as reading clubs and small classes for young women would necessarily be held in the early evening, and most of the clubs hold their meetings in the afternoon, their use for the different purposes could be arranged so as not to interfere with the way the clubs may be able to help the employed girl and the lonely girl away from home comforts, and so work up public sentiment in this direction and make some small beginning toward providing better equipment at a future day.

This committee have also made a census of the club women of the city. They have in most instances credited the smaller clubs with their full allocation of members, and have taken these names and lists of the larger clubs when they have found them there. Thus each club member will only be counted once even though she belongs to several clubs.

The following is the result of a tabulated list:

Total number of clubs, eleven. With the corrected list of members credited to each, as follows:
Woman's History, 35.
Art League, 76.
D. A. R., 96.
Civic League, 66.
O. E. S. Study Class, Class 38.
Dramatic League, 25.
Athenaeum, 24.
Twenty-fifth Century, 21.
Congenial, 20.
Philomathian, 18.
McDowell, 20.

Total number of club women estimated from these lists, 420.

The plan that is proposed by this committee would be, that as the estimate of the improvement is $1500 and the number of club women 420, the average cost per member would be about $3.50. And the different clubs could take their apportionment and raise the funds any way they saw fit. Either by individual subscriptions, by club entertainment or by securing donations from public spirited citizens or associations, or with all of these methods combined.

As a means toward securing co-operation on this project the committee would recommend that a club luncheon be given at a suitable place some time during the week beginning March 29th, to which every club woman in the city would be invited. Then matters could be talked over and a plan of campaign arranged. This committee would also request that the regular social committee of each club be asked to co-operate and be empowered to make arrangements for such an event.

If there is no social committee the president of each organization is asked to appoint several members to serve for this special occasion.

PHILOMATHIAN CLUB.

This organization met with Mrs. F. A. Taylor on Saturday afternoon, March 4th. In the absence of Mrs. Dunn, the vice president, Mrs. Whiffen presided. At the business meeting the report of the club and club room movement was taken up and endorsed and plans were immediately begun toward financing the plan. The ladies each agreed to earn the sum of one dollar before the next club meeting which is in two weeks. The ladies of the social committee who will help plan the prospective club luncheons are Misses Keller, Whiffen and Taylor and Miss Youngclaus.

The study program was begun by a paper on "Armenia" given by Miss Margaret Youngclaus. She said that the size of the country impressed one, being 2200 miles long by 1000 miles wide and that with 7 million people it would allow about 100 acres of land to each person. There were immense numbers of horses raised throughout the country and large herds of sheep, wool being one of the chief exports. It is one of the great wheat producing countries of the world, but subject also to extreme droughts in climate and the pest of locusts.

Buenos Ayres is the largest Spanish speaking country in the world and has numerous up to date business firms and fine schools, libraries and hospitals.

Mrs. Capelle gave a most interesting paper on "The Conservation of Birds," in which she said that "Bird study was no trifling fad," but that Audubon societies had proved the usefulness of the birds in helping to check the insect pests.

She said the best preserves in the United States, that Hog Island and Gravel Island belonging to Wisconsin as well as the federal churches, societies and all organizations that are interested in the subject of health. Their services are given free of charge; all that is necessary is to telephone Dr. Robertson at his office in the city hall and make the necessary arrangements.

We are in a position to give a lecture on any part of baby welfare that they wish," said the health commissioner. "Some of our men are milk specialists, others are experts on babies' diseases, while still others are prepared to talk about the subject in general." An effort is being made by Dr. Robertson to give lectures in the churches next Sunday.

NATIONAL SOCIETY D. A. R.

Miss Barlow, Curator General of Museum, Continental Hall, writes Mrs. Kimberley from Washington, D. C. "I do indeed thank you so much for the beautiful gifts you have made for the 'Historic Case.' Each one is a gift in itself and they shall be placed in a group with your name attached and will be preserved from dust and air in one of the new cases. The fan is full of charm and the ornaments are perfect specimens of a period of the nation's design." I am greatly pleased with your donation and send my kindest regards.

Miss Catharine B. Barlow holds the responsible position of custodian of flags at Continental Memorial Hall. She has in her care all historic flags, rare and interesting. States' Glover's Reports on Flags has been presented to Miss Barlow's desk.

At the business meeting the question of uniting with the other clubs in working for a club room was taken up and the plan was enthusiastically endorsed. Mrs. Dower and Mrs. Fathers were named as members of a committee to start the club room project and a social committee to plan for a general club luncheon was elected as follows: Mrs. L. Amerpoli, Mrs. Will Curtiss, Mrs. Roy McDonald and Mrs. Fatzinger.

BIBLE INSTITUTE.

This organization does not say much about its meetings but every Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 10:00 earnest Sunday school workers meet together to further the purposes of these schools, emotional exercises, a regular three year course of lessons and a full discussion of plans and methods of study, mark these meetings as being a means of great help to them in their special work.

The meeting of last Wednesday, March 1, was especially enjoyable by reason of the very interesting trivologue given to them by Bishop W. H. Webb of Milwaukee on Palestine. The views were taken personally by Bishop Webb while on a two months sojourn in the country. He showed realistic pictures of the members of the caravan, the tents, camping outfit etc., and gave many little reminiscences of the trip. Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"I think Marian Townsend hunts herself by her attitude toward their young guest," said Neil Norton as she and Olive Ellison walked down under the crimson in a pale. "She might bury her spleen and try to make the young lady's visit pleasant."

"The guest is a Blakely, and so a member of the enemy's camp. Blakely was the detested stepmother's name and she will have him if I answered Olive."

"Adelaide is not to blame for any of the offences of Ortrude. It is not fair to hate her for her name." The friends walked on in silence for some time. Finally Neil said:

"Dick says Mr. Townsend must be in financial difficulties, for he was in the office the other day trying to raise some money."

"Yes, he was trying to sell something now, and he would simply have to give real estate away to get rid of it. The doctors are very poor now with the doctor and I suppose a merchant would feel that sooner than a professional man," replied Olive.

"How can a woman care no more for her husband's interest than to spend money lavishly at such a time?" Neil's tone was indignant.

No woman wife would do it. Mrs. Townsend is thoroughly selfish," and the friends dropped the difficult Townsend problem.

(To be continued.)

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
In care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-eight years old I have been married nine years. My husband and I love each other and have got along fine together until lately. My father's relatives and I have always been very friendly and I don't dare a bit how they look what they say. They are just as rude sometimes as they can be. Two months ago my aunt moved on the same street with us and she has been ever the life out of me ever since. She comes over any time she feels like it and stays indefinitely. Often she stays around until supper time and then I have to ask her to stay. She has a daughter old enough to manage things of her house and she usually does stay.

This makes my husband mad and he acts terribly to her. The last time she stayed he got his hat and left the house and didn't come back until very late. Last night we got ready to go to the picture show and just as we were about to leave my aunt and cousin came over. When we said we were going away they asked where and I told them. Then my aunt said that sounded good and she and my cousin would go along. My husband swore and asked them if they couldn't leave us alone to have just one evening together. They were very angry and talked in such loud voices that this morning my neighbor wanted to know what was wrong.

My mother phoned today and said that she had heard about the whole affair and that I must apologize to my aunt. I feel that if I do apologize she will come over and be just as bad as ever. What would you advise me to do?

WORRIED.
Let things remain as they are and do not apologize. It seems to me that your husband's outburst was almost justified. If your aunt could realize that she was not wanted in your home the time that your husband left the house, she is not sensitive enough to accept an apology in the right way. I agree with you that in a short time she would probably be coming over as often as ever.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl eighteen years old and have gone with a young man for months. I have no intentions of marrying him but I have heard people say that we had better get married or quit. Would you advise me to quit him?

(2) Should a girl and boy sing what our singing?

(3) When a young man comes in the middle of the afternoon and then goes to church should you serve anything?

(4) Should a girl ask a boy chum to go with them without the boy asking her?

HOPE.

The remarks people make are very disagreeable. If you and your young man are serious and do nothing to be ashamed of, do not pay any attention to what people say.

(2) If they sing for their own amusement and not to attract the attention of people there is no reason why they should not sing.

(3) Serve sandwiches and tea, popcorn or some light refreshments if you are not in the habit of having a Sunday night supper.

(4) She should ask the boy if he is willing that the other girl should go along. There is no need of his asking her too.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will large hats be worn this summer?

(2) I have some blue pencil marks on my white linen waist. What will you do?

(3) What would be best to use on the face before putting on powder so that it won't look so rough and the powder won't stick? —S. G.

(4) Large hats will not be as popular as small ones.

(5) Try rubbing the marks with lemon juice or peroxide. Sometimes nothing will remove blue pencil marks.

(6) Use a vanishing cream before powdering.

Real Estate Deal by Long Distance

WHILE dining with friends at a New York hotel, a real estate man was called to the telephone. His telephone call was from Chicago, and a few minutes' talk had settled a big deal as far as these two principals were concerned, but the Chicago man had two associates to be consulted—one in Denver and one in Milwaukee. This he did over the Long Distance telephone, getting their O.K.

He then reported their decision to the New York man, who was waiting on the New York-Chicago line.

Although this is a country of magnificent distances, the Bell Long Distance lines cover the country so completely that persons, however widely separated, are quickly brought together.

SQUABBLE OVER HIGH TOURNEY CONTINUES ATWOOD RULED OUT BY AMATEUR BOARD

Normal School Holding High School Tournament and Lawrence College Also Plans One.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Milwaukee, Wis., March 8.—The fight over staging the annual high school basketball tournament, on the eve of the sectional tournaments arranged by the physical directors of normal schools seems to be as far from settled as ever.

In the past, Lawrence college has held a high school tournament at Appleton and the winner was decided to be the holder of the state title.

This year the physical directors of the normal schools arranged to hold sectional tournaments in every city where a normal school is located. These sectional contests will start tomorrow. They will be held in this city, La Crosse, Whitewater, Oshkosh, Superior, River Falls, Platteville and Stevens Point. The sectional tournaments will last three days.

The winners of the games in their various sections will gather in Milwaukee on March 17 and 18 to decide the state championship.

In the meantime Lawrence college is going ahead, planning to hold their tournament this season as in the past. At present it seems that there will be as many teams enter the Lawrence affair as the one planned by the normal schools and it is highly probable that the basketball championship will be a muddled affair as the state football championships.

The normal school basketball championship was not staged at the time of the oratorical contest as has been the custom in the past but the deciding game will be staged on March 14 and 15 between the winning northern and the winning southern teams.

At the high school tournament trophies worth $500 will be awarded the winning team, and gold, silver and bronze medals will be given the winning players.

THREE HARVARD FOOTBALL STARS LOST TO THE SQUAD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Cambridge, Mass., March 8.—Harvard football chances for the coming season received a serious blow Tuesday when three of the Crimson stars, J. J. Gilman, captain, and guard, of Honolulu, Tom Enright, fullback, and both halfback stars were asked by the college administration to withdraw from college because of failure to pass the mid-year examination.

Enright, who was hoped to be a successor of Mahan and Brickleay, has a chance of readmission. Harts may be picked to succeed Gilman as captain of the Harvard squad next year.

BASKETBALL CAPTAINS ELECTED FOR CLASSES

Freshmen and Sophomore Classes Elect Captains for Basketball Teams—Other Classes Will Elect Tonight.

At a meeting last night of the sophomore boys at the high school a captain was elected for their basketball team. Robert Lane was chosen to head the team. The freshman boys elected George Cassidy at a meeting last Monday night. The junior and senior boys will meet tonight and tomorrow to organize their teams.

The class basketball games are causing quite a little interest at the school. Over twenty men were out at the first practice of the freshmen last night and from indications at present they will have a strong bunch. The first games will be played in two weeks when the first team has finished their season.

WASHINGTON PITCHING STAFF ON WAY TO TRAINING CAMP

The weather man has called "play ball," and the season is on. Here is a picture of the twirlers of the Washington club—with the exception of the mighty Walter Johnson—on their way to training quarters at Charlottesville. The twirlers are taking it very easy during the first few days of training, and have done most of their work indoors.

Washington, March 8.—The fact that the youngsters who went to Charlottesville last week have been unable to indulge in much outdoor practice to date is not a source of disappointment to Manager Griffith.

He insists that the pitchers will be better off by working indoors in inclement weather than they would be in the open.

"I am satisfied that we will have good weather down there during the greater part of our stay, and the players now are real strenuous outdoors work by working twice a day in the gymnasium."

Griffith always has been an expert at getting his pitchers in shape. He has a system which he follows and which slowly works the twirlers into condition. He never rushes his twirling candidates, but lets them take it slowly, and when it gets down to where they pitch at top speed they are given the rest they require the next day or so, being sent to the outfield to shag flies and thus keep themselves in condition while resting their arms.

The professionals this year, as for the past four years, are training farther North than any of the other major league teams. Stalling is taking the farthest point south that any team is going. Pat Moran will be at St. Petersburg, while Robbie and the Brooklyn squad will be at Daytona, and Joe Tinker at Tampa, Jacksonville, the little Florida city to be invaded by a major league club, is heading the Athletics.

Lee Polk's team to New Orleans, Fielder Jones goes to Pats, Tex, and Miller Huggins to San Antonio. Hughey Jones and his Tigers will be at Waxahachie, Tex. Clarence Rowland at Mineral Wells, and John McGraw and the Giants at Marlin. Carrigan and Callahan with the Red Sox and Pirates, to Hot Springs, Ark., and Herzog will train at Montgomery, Ala.

It is argued in Griffith's favor that his team when it starts out will be accustomed to the sort of weather that is apt to be prevalent in most of the cities where the season opens, because the players, not having been trained in a hot climate, will not have to become acclimated when they quit training to go to New York and Boston, where they play their first eight games.

Some of the teams which train in the extreme south, where hot weather prevails, get a material setback when they come north to open the season.

Griffith's team always has obtained a fair start in the race in the spring, holding its own with most of its rivals.

At Montgomery, Ala.

Eddie Garry, of Beloit, accompanied the pitching corp of the Senators and is reported to be making "good" with Griffith as a second catcher. He is the third one from the left of the players standing. Stroll Chubb, annex a berth with the Senators. Jamesville fans expect to see him catching the shots of Walter Johnson in Chicago this summer.

Only one speaker mentioned my name," says Bennie, "and that was to poke fun at me. The league evidently doesn't appreciate its greatest asset."

College Five Win From Y. M. C. A. Last Night at Milton.—Play Delavan at "Y" Tonight.

Milton College basketball tossers defeated the local Y. M. C. A. five last night at Milton by a score of 26 to 10.

The game was scheduled with the college seconds, but when the play started it was found that a number of first string players were on the floor. The contest was very interesting and the Jamesville boys put up a good fight.

The local lineup was as follows: Slater, center; Booth and Sturz, guards.

Play Delavan.

Tonight, at seven-fifteen o'clock sharp the "Y" five will run up against a strong aggregation from Delavan.

The locals will have a strong lineup in the game composed of Koch, Sherman, McDonald, Jones, Booth and Bennett.

Delavan will come here without a defeat, and a fast, snappy game is expected.

If Eddie Plank lives long enough and pitches for the Browns ten years he may be called a free agent.

The first contract sent in by a Southern league umpire was from the veteran Bill Bernhard.

BAUMANN'S COLTS SQUEEZE GAME FROM LYKE'S COLTS; OTHER MATCH GAMES ROLLED

Lyke's Colts gave the Baumann's Colts a good game last night at the Miller alleys. They fell down in the first inning and in the next two they had a lead on Baumann's team, but not quite enough. McDermott rolled the high score, knocking down 239 pins.

In the K. C. league the La Fayette's won from the Hennepins and the Calverts won from the Cortes.

At Y. M. C. A.

Seconds had a close call when they rolled the Taylor five. They only won the game by eleven pins. Nicholas rolled the Bay six set with 189 pins.

At West Side alleys.

At the West Side alleys the Monterey All Stars took it upon themselves to win a game last night and they did in the match with the W. O. W. team. Following are the scores and line-ups.

The Heavens In March

Four of the Planets Visible Without a Telescope This Month. Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.—Venus Most Like Earth.

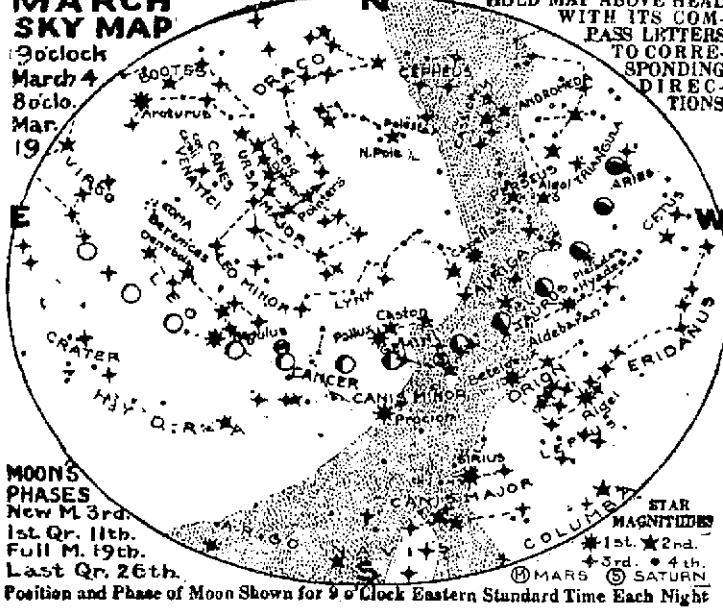

Constellation Crater Has Risen in the Southeast, and the Greater Part of Virgo Can Now Be Seen.

—World in the Making.

By C. S. Brainin of the Columbia University Observatory Staff.

Four of the earth's fellow-planets can be seen with the unaided eye this month: Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The former two are not visible at the time of our map and therefore, of course, are not shown, but they may be found without difficulty. Venus you will see in the west, for perhaps two hours after sunset, near the place where the sun has just set. She will appear well before any of the brighter stars and should be immediately recognized. Mars and Saturn can be studied at leisure in the evening hours and readily found by reference to the map. To see Mercury this month, however, one must get up before sunrise, as he happens to be a morning star. March 1 is the proper date for this adventure, as the planet rapidly approaches the sun and is, ten days later, quite too close to the sun to be seen.

New March Constellations

The most important constellation, Crater, has risen in the southeast, and the greater part of Virgo, can now be seen. Center is the Bowl or Cup, the Goblet of Apollo. Virgo is the constellation the sun enters about harvest time and is readily identified with Ceres, the Goddess of Plenty. There is a theory that the Egyptian Sphinx was meant to represent the head of this Virgin on the body of its neighboring constellation, the Lion. Astrologically, the sign of the Virgin was an fortunate one.

The constellation is also of great scientific interest, as the region of the celestial sphere between Leo and Virgo is full of nebulae, about five hundred having been counted in that field. There is in this group and beautiful, white, first magnitude star, early part of the month. This is Spica, the eye of the goddess who holds many an ancient temple was oriented in its direction. Astronomically, Spica is of great interest, because it is known as a binary, i.e., a star really composed of two stars, one revolving about the other. Even in the largest telescopes Spica appears as a single bright star. The analysis of its light by the wonderful spectroscope alone reveals its real double nature. Further, this instrument tells us that the star is approaching the system of our sun at the rate of 9.2 miles per second; however, we know nothing of its distance, it being too far away to be measured by instruments for angle-measuring which our science has so far developed.

To the north of Virgo and just over the horizon is the better known group of Bootes, the Bear Driver, holding in leash his hunting dogs, Canes Venatici. The brightest of this constellation is the admirable reddish, first-magnitude star Arcturus, which means "watcher of the bear." In addition to its beauty, this star has great scientific interest, although one of its so-called fixed stars, it has moved its position perceptibly since the time of the great Greek astronomers. Its position does not now fit in with the description given by Ptolemy, and this can establishments in Germany—establishments which for the most part have been in business for decades, and which not only are gradually losing their German and American business but also before the war dealt with Germany's present opponents, and consequently have lost their trade with Russia, France, Italy, Belgium and other countries.

The list included the largest typewriter company in the world, the largest dental supply firm in existence, the biggest shoe company, in point of sales of American goods, in Germany, a large adding machine corporation, a well known elevator manufacturer, one of the largest manufacturers of toilet articles in America and other smaller concerns, but no attempt was made to determine the possible losses of establishments dealing on contract and even in conditions of contraband, except as the latter constituted part of the imports of the dental supplies in the form of gutta percha and rubber. The correspondent's investigation was confined solely to things at present held up by the blockade which could not directly serve war purposes.

Many millions of dollars worth of goods either have been held up or, though needed, have not been ordered because of the impossibility of getting them after the billions of investments capital probably would be lost completely, in the opinion of their investors, if there is not a speedy remedy.

Women and children's shoes, it is contended, are not contraband. Yet the American shoe men in Germany despair of ever being able to get any more, because they assume that England withdraws these articles on the theory that, without American goods, Germany must apply a considerable proportion of its leather stock to supplying its civilian population. With American shoes for women and children this leather could be used for soldiers' footwear.

Business men in other lines—typewriters for example—fail to understand what advantage the blockade can have. America and America only, they maintain, is being hurt. Germany, they say, as an abundance of metal, and the exclusion of American typewriters merely gives the German manufacturers of this machine an advantage that they have waited for in vain, since the introduction of the industry here.

Overhead Expenses.

A considerable item in the damage to Americans caused by the blockade lies in overhead expenses. Almost without exception the principal firms here find themselves with long-term leases on their buildings, though they face the necessity of "shutting up shop" within a short time, their rents must be continued as long as they have the money to pay them. All have had to discharge employees, and all have been hampered by losing men who have been drawn into the army. One adding machine company has reduced its subsidiary concerns from twenty to twelve.

Typewriters, at least for firms dealing in mechanical devices, is the more serious because they not only are unable to import their machines but because even shipments of "parts" are stopped, and they cannot in consequence carry out contracts made before the war.

The only American firms which have not reached an almost hopeless stage are those—principally the manufacturers of farming machinery—which have plants here in Germany, and which therefore are largely independent of imports. Many of these are said to be prospering by diverting temporarily their activities to the production of ammunition.

American importers of goods of every kind long ago gave up Holland as a country through which they could get material. Scandinavia has become the medium through which the little dribbles that comes in. And the Scandinavian country, according to the commercial opinion, are busily occupied in looking out for themselves.

Coma Berenices.

Between Canes Venatici and the bright star, Denebola in Leo on a clear night you will find a faint cloud-like patch of light, which is the beautiful star cluster in the constellation of Coma Berenices, the Hair of Berenice. E. F. Burritt tells in his book dentists all over Europe have drawn their supplies. This concern was doing, at the outbreak of the war, a business of between $50,000 and $75,000 a month. Today it is doing—chiefly through the sale of German goods—business ranging from $7,000 to $9,000 a month.

It struggled along while the parcel post was still working. Such things as dentists' chairs, electric motors and the like have long since been sold out and cannot be replaced. But, by mail, it was able to get gutta percha and rubber, amalgam, and the various ingredients for fillings, but even that is impossible now.

Its office force has had to be reduced by about 80 per cent. Its headquarters have the appearance of a barn with a few articles standing forlornly about. For weeks and months its manager has been fighting to stave off the eventual closing down until the end of the war.

An adding machine company is another one of several American firms that have companies with large stocks on hand at the beginning of the war. The firm at first was not at all inclined to side in with other American business establishments in their complaints against the English blockade. The business fell off only during the first months of the war, and picked up during the first half of 1915. Then the pinch began to make itself felt. Old machines were returned for repairs that could not be made, in spite of contracts, because of the lack of materials. Orders for new machines continued to come in until existing stocks were exhausted. Then, practically gone now, and the manager looks with regretful eye at the $60,000 worth of machines that, at the last accounting, were held at Kirkwall, England.

Farming Machinery.

With varying details, it is the very same story with half a dozen American firms who sell farming machinery. In months it also has been almost an impossibility to buy American articles in Berlin. The wife of an American recently spent days and considerable taxi cab fare in visiting every drug store of importance in the residential sections of the city in a vain search for a few things which she and her husband wanted. A big American firm dealing in toilet articles has for years maintained a branch here, but business has gone so hopelessly bad that the manager even has left, and the office is merely kept open by subordinates at the more or less indefinite hope that affairs will better themselves soon.

American hats formerly had something of a vogue here, but they are now excluded. So did radiators, separators, pumps, presses, elevators, and a dozen other things.

For a long while the Americans who deal in all these things have been inclined to take matters philosophically. Most of them have taken the stand of an important director that his home office does not have business with the opponents in Germany—namely that too loud a protest is apt to injure trade in the entente countries. Now, however, hat is becoming literally a matter of commercial life or death, most of them have stopped being silent sacrifices, and are seeking ways and means whereby they can voice their indignation.

Germans Get Trade.

The largest American typewriter company in Germany has an investment here of about two and a half million dollars, and after eighteen months of war has "given up the ghost." Its guiding official, after trying every possible diplomatic and official means of relief, has settled down to the task of "unloading" as judiciously as possible. The assets of the concern are great—they cannot be turned into cash at the present time. The concern's representative has been trying to believe at last that he will be lucky if he can liquidate so as to come out even, that is to say, if he can wind up his affairs without sacrificing more than the capital invested.

This company was one of the pioneers in the typewriter industry. In competition to it, a whole row of German firms sprang up a number of years ago, and flourished because they cut out cheap enough inferior machines. Gradually an enormous trade jealousy was evolved. The numerous German concerns in time outstripped in point of business done the American firm with its three subsidiary companies, but the American company nevertheless made gigantic strides in Germany and Austria, until its annual business had risen into the millions. All that stopped when the war began. The head of the firm refuses to resort to any subterfuge in obtaining either machines or supplies.

While the location of the postoffice is a matter of public discussion and suggestions are in order, why not endeavor to secure the corner store of M. C. Smith's new brick block. It will make an elegant postoffice, besides the location will suit the majority of the business men of the city.

Playin' "for Keeps" is pretty cold business, and is not carried on among our juveniles to any great extent these days.
